

Amoebunnies

Bunny Buddies Expansion

Rulebook

The Rainbow Mists just got a little more interesting.

Melaina, Jin, and Bruno have arrived, and each brings something new to the world of the Amoebunnies.

Melaina has flair, sparkle, and more personality than one bunny can handle. She's giving new meaning to a one-bunny band, amoebunny-style! Jin may be a little shy, but he's a fiercely loyal friend. Ohm has lost his glow and Jin is zipping through the Mists, collecting static charge to help his lightning bug friend. And Bruno? He's on high alert: Something strange is happening with the bugs, and he's determined to get to the bottom of it.

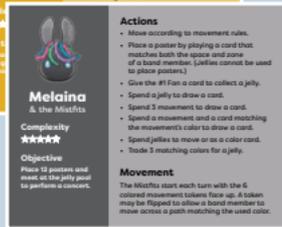

New bunnies with new ways to play combine with your old favorites for even more fun. Hop back into the Rainbow Mists and see what adventures await with your new Bunny Buddies. Just don't forget: the first to finish still earns the best prize of all—a well-deserved carrot.

Bruno's Objective

Bruno is defending the Rainbow Mists from bugs who have discovered a taste for jelly. If he knocks out all five of the invaders, he wins.

What to look out for

When Bruno is on a space with another amoebunny, he may spar with them to train for battle. Bruno will roll his battle die and his opponent will roll the enemy die. Whoever lands more hits wins and gets to draw a card from the Color Deck.

Jin's Objective

Jin's lightning bug friend has run out of electricity. He'll be traveling around the Mists collecting static charge so he can help his friend light up again.

What to look out for

Jin has an ability called Entangled Pair which allows him to use quantum properties to exchange places with another player. He will then give that player the Entangled Pair token. On that player's turn, they have the option to return the token to Jin to swap places again.

Melaina's Objective

Melaina has split into fragments to form a band. Help herself place posters around the Mists so the other bunnies can get tickets to the show. She must have two posters in each zone then get all of the bandmates together in the spaces around the Pool.

What to look out for

When other players are on a space with an intact poster on their turn, flip the poster to its ripped side and that player collects a Fandom token. The player with the most tokens is the #1 Fan. Melaina may give her #1 Fan an autographed color card to collect a jelly.

On certain evenings, the Bunny Buddies gather in Melaina's cove for game night. Tonight, the flat stone they used for a game board was cluttered with pebbles, shells, and one very suspicious pinecone.

Bruno scowled. "You can't put that there; it's against the rules."

"Sure you can," Melaina said, adding another. "It's not hard."

"We could vote," Melaina offered sweetly as Bruno continued to glare.

"Okay," Bruno agreed. "But no splitting off the Mistfits just to win!"

"Ugh, fine," Melaina huffed, her plan clearly spoiled.

Jin, who was pretending not to hear his bickering friends, perked up as his ears began to softly glow. "Electricity in the air," he murmured.

Thunder rumbled as the three buddies huddled close, watching clouds churn in the distance. Bruno wondered if the storm would bring someone new—maybe someone who liked games. Melaina hoped they'd like music. Jin quietly wished for someone to talk about the weather with.

As the first raindrops began to fall, they watched the skies together, ready to welcome whoever might find their way to the Rainbow Mists next.
